Bus Drivers Balk On Sports

SJ Teams Must Charter Private Carrier

As the result of a contract dispute, St. Joseph school bus drivers are refusing to haul the system's athletic teams to out-of-town contests.

School authorities are using a local charter service to make the trips.

During the past week, school bus drivers refused to take the basketball team to Holland Christian Tuesday night and to Portage Northern last night. A charter bus took the swimming team to Battle Creek today.

According to Dennis Percy, St. Joseph school district business manager, the drivers, through their attorney Royce DeFrancesco, have filed a grievance questioning the right of the district to use outside carriers.

"The drivers have declined to make the outside runs, but all regular school runs were made throughout the week," said Percy.

The drivers have refused the posted special runs since last Saturday when an Indiana Motor bus was chartered to take the swimming team to Culver Military Institute at Culver, Ind., a jaunt of about 75-80 miles.

"Because of the distance and the type of roads to be traveled in central Indiana, we decided to honor the request of the team for the use of an easier riding bus," said Percy.

For Tuesday and Friday night travel, the district made arrangements with the charter service operated by Joe Manamina, which furnishes transportation for Lake Michigan Catholic.

St. Joseph drivers are paid time and a half for special runs on weekdays and double time for Saturday and Sunday work.

Atty. DeFrancesco, counsel for the drivers, was unavailable for comment this morning.

Cold May Have Saved Peach Crop

Grower Finds Many Buds Undamaged

By ALAN AREND
Staff Writer

Frigid temperatures throughout January may have saved southwestern Michigan's 1970 peach crop despite the 10 to 20 below readings Wednesday night, which would have normally wiped it out.

Herbert Teichman, Eau Claire area fruit grower, has cut approximately 1,000 of his peach buds in two since the subnormal temperatures three nights ago, and found that 36 to 46 per cent of the buds are still good. It is generally figured that a peach tree needs only 10 per cent live buds to have a good crop.

Teichman said the buds apparently had been conditioned by the earlier cold to withstand more severe temperatures than previous experience had suggested.

Teichman who operates a weather reporting station in cooperation with the U.S. Weather bureau, reported a low of 15 below for five hours Wednesday night. Prior to his bud testing, he doubted that any peaches would be left under such severe cold. As a general rule of thumb, heavy peach bud kill can be expected when the temperature drops to 13-14 below.

DEEPLY DORMANT

Teichman explained injury to a bud can be determined by a darkening or discoloration of the bud's interior.

Teichman indicated that the prolonged sub-normal temperatures this month made many buds so deeply dormant they were not hurt by the severe drop in temperature.

He reported that so far there have been five days this month with below zero readings.

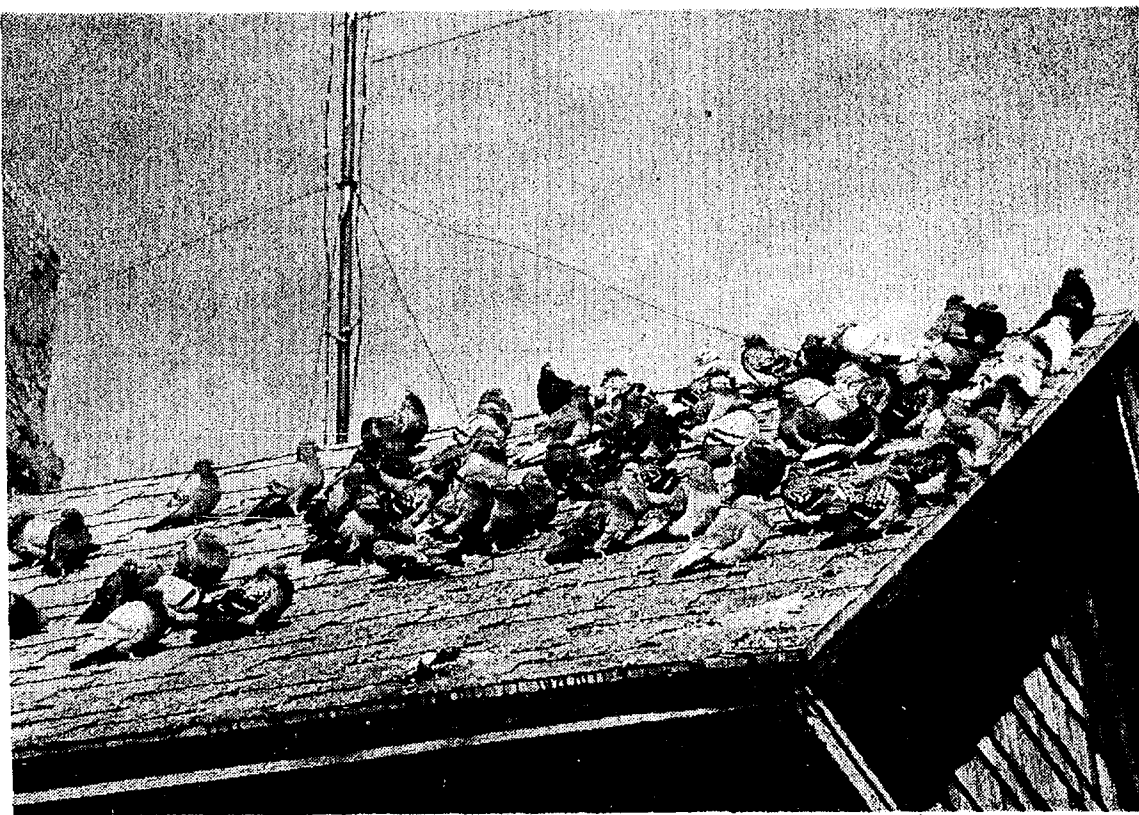

and only two days above the 32-degree mark (for 10 hours on Jan. 16 and 17). Twenty days in December also had readings of below 32 degrees which helped to promote the tight dormancy.

In his cuttings, 42 per cent of Redhaven buds, 46 per cent of the Redskin, and 36 per cent of the Richhaven variety were still

Must Act Fast, Says U.S. Aide

Some Guesses At Cost 10 Times Higher

CHICAGO (AP) — An expert estimated Friday that the cost of cleaning the filth from Lake Michigan would be more than $1 billion.

President Nixon pledged in his State of the Union message Thursday a $10 billion drive to combat water pollution.

The state of Illinois alone "has needs of over $1.5 billion," C. Wallace Poston, director of the Great Lakes regional office of the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration said. Poston becomes commissioner of Chicago's Department of Environmental control Feb. 1.

Poston estimated the cleanup cost for Lake Michigan at "upwards of $1 billion. But this is a difficult figure to come by. I would say it's going to be a very expensive job."

$10 BILLION HIGH
Others in his organization pegged the cost at $2 billion to $10 billion.

Federal officials, together with authorities of the four states which border the lake—Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan—agreed on a cleanup plan in 1968.

By December 1972, all communities are supposed to have waste treatment facilities. Industries are required to have completed pollution control devices. Various bans on pesticides, combination sewers and storm drainage and dumping are scheduled to be enforced.

This will cost at least $1 billion, but it's not clear where that money is coming from.

"I don't think Lake Michigan is irretrievably lost," Poston said. "There's a lot of clean water in the middle of the lake. But there are localized areas where you're giving it hell. We have to act and act fast."

Unofficial groups are not so optimistic.

Anthony D'Amato, an assistant professor of law at Northwestern University and an advisor to the Northwestern Students for a Better Environment, said it is impossible to put a dollar figure on the cost of cleaning up Lake Michigan. The current proposals, he said, are avoiding the issue.

"They're talking about municipal treatment plants while they're ringing the lake with huge atomic power plants," D'Amato said.

He said the heat and radioactive pollution from atomic plants "could kill the lake even faster than what's being done now."

"I don't feel you can use more technology to undo what technology has done," D'Amato said. "Instead of treating the wastes and dumping them back in, they should process them into organic fertilizers. And instead of building dangerous atomic power plants, they should develop new power sources."

Nation's Eyes On Local Case, BH NAACP Told

By JIM SHANAHAN
BH City Editor

The NAACP's suit against the Benton Harbor school district "will be watched across the nation and may largely determine what happens in all our northern cities," the NAACP general counsel said last night.

Atty. Nathaniel R. Jones spoke to about 45 persons at a Benton Harbor branch NAACP meeting in Blossom Acres Community center.

The NAACP is suing a school district to end de facto segregation. Trial starts Feb. 5 before Judge W. Wallace Kent in U.S. District court, Kalamazoo.

Jones predicted: "No matter who wins, it will be appealed and may take two years." The NAACP is prepared to go "all the way" — District court, Appeals court and U.S. Supreme court.

He expects the trial to last "in excess of a week" with another six weeks before the judge's ruling.

The NAACP plan wants the court to formulate a plan for desegregation, specific to the point of mathematical division of students, Jones said.

The NAACP case has been very carefully researched in an attempt to achieve a landmark decision, Jones said. He admitted there are decisions in other districts that are not encouraging but expressed confidence the courts will order desegregation in the north as they are doing in the south.

Jones charged the Benton Harbor district with operating a dual system in which blacks receive a caliber of education different than the program offered whites.

He traced the history of court battles starting with Plessy v. Ferguson, 1896, in which the Supreme court upheld the separate but equal doctrine in transportation.

This also was interpreted to apply to education and "generations of black youngsters were being cheated." Then came World War II and automation.

A literate mind was more important than a strong back to hold a job.

In 1954, in Brown v. Board of Education, Topeka, Kan., the Supreme court ruled that segregation was inherently unequal.

That suit was won by the NAACP represented by Thurgood Marshall, now a Supreme court justice.

Jones accused the Nixon administration of trying to turn back the clock by nominating Judge Clement Haynsworth for the Supreme court, and, after rejection of Haynsworth coming up with Judge G. Harold Carswell who made a segregationist speech 22 years ago as a political candidate. Carswell has repudiated the speech.

Shock Waves Following Vote To Close Schools

Catholic Board Wants State Aid

LANSING (AP) — Shock waves have followed a vote by the Ingham - Eaton County Catholic Board of Education to close all its schools by June unless state aid becomes available.

The area board voted 11 - 1 with one abstaining and two members absent earlier this week to close all Catholic elementary and secondary schools unless additional financial help is found.

Approval by the Lansing Catholic Diocesan Board of Education will be needed before the action can be taken.

"We hope we can resolve the problem in a less traumatic manner," said William J. Blackburn, associate superintendent of public instruction for the diocese. "There must be some means of saving the schools."

Blackburn said he believes this was the first vote for closure by an area Catholic school district in the state.

The Rev. William F. Meyers, general superintendent of education for the Lansing Diocese, expressed surprise at the vote. District legislators immediately jumped in with comment.

Rep. Thomas Brown, R-Lansing, urged the area board to reconsider its decision.

"In the first place, parochial will pass," Brown predicted, "and the acute financial problem will be solved. In addition, the parents will be encouraged to continue their financial sacrifice."

"We cannot afford or allow these schools to close," Brown declared. "Not only are they saving the taxpayers money, but they are providing quality education for our youth."

Rep. Phillip Pittenger, R-Lansing, termed the vote "another lobbying tactic."

"They have been threatening the same thing in Detroit," he said. "I think you will see the same thing in other major parishes — such as Grand Rapids and Flint."

In earlier parochial votes in the Legislature, Brown has favored Parochial and Pittenger has opposed it. The House defeated the proposal last May, the Senate approved it in December.

The two-county area has two Catholic high schools, one junior high and nine elementary schools with a total of 4,851 students.

The majority of the pupils and the schools are in Lansing. Brown estimated the closing would cost the Lansing school district $2 million more a year if it had to absorb the pupils.

Legislative observers said such a dramatic closing in the schools closest to the state capital would be bound to influence the parochial vote.

The closure motion was made by area board member Frank

Court Orders BH Man To Pay Child Support

A Benton Harborite, Rufus Young, was ordered Friday in Berrien circuit court to pay $15 a week support for a child on Aid to Dependent Children grants plus $10 weekly on a child support arrearage of $2,353, according to Berrien Friend of the Court John Schoenhals.

Judge Karl F. Zick also placed Young on probation to Schoenhals for a year. The arrearage grew while Young recuperated from an auto accident but he is now reported back at work, Schoenhals said.

Young pays support for a child of a previous marriage.

State Of The Union Message Improves

"He shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient. . . ."

While the above quoted Constitutional requirement of the President allows him great leeway in advising Congress of his view of the nation's course and how it may best be steered, the custom arose in George Washington's day for the President to address Congress on its opening of a new session.

These remarks were called the State of the Union message.

Through the many generations since Washington departed the White House, succeeding Presidents have used the State of the Union message to set the political flavor of their Administrations.

Until the 1930s rolled around, the Chief Executive customarily delivered a brief statement painting only the highlights of a picture which he hoped Congress would see. Later he supplied the complimentary undertones in a series of messages, of which the budget message was the most important.

Starting with the New Deal inaugural in 1933, the State of the Union message has expanded into a fully detailed blueprint of Presidential wishes.

A certain excuse for the prolonged delivery can be found in the circumstances surrounding its delivery.

FDR's initial message had to be lengthy so that a nation petrified by economic fright could regain confidence in itself.

The foreign policy explanations in all Union messages from 1940 onward would convey no meaning if couched in one or two aphorisms because that portion of the Union message is intended for foreign digestion as much and probably more so than domestic consumption.

Only when the Union message takes on the aspect of a laundry list for a family of ten persons does it lose the audience and cast its orator in the role of a barnyard politician.

In his first State of the Union message (LBJ sent a lame duck one to Congress preceding the inaugural last year), Richard Nixon decided to go back to the older style.

His 35-minute statement calls for concentration on four objectives: shutting down Viet Nam and raising up a durable world peace; defeat inflation; step up the war on crime; and begin a long siege against pollution.

Only in two places did he embellish upon the skeleton of his total goal.

The crime war will be intensified, he noted, so that a Congressman no longer will fear to walk at night in Washington.

Pollution he attributed in large measure to automotive exhaust systems which will have to be researched into more efficient systems, and as a starter he wants $10 billion spent over the next few years on controlling pollution in all forms.

The speech, by design, was aimed at the public which shows a remarkable ability to get down to basic issues far beyond the degree to which its elected representatives catch a point or choose to do so.

The reaction from the leadership among Nixon's adversaries is an excellent gauge of how effectively the President shapes up the major problems facing Uncle Sam.

How does he intend to scale the four mountains, in their response.

The complaint is understandable.

In the first place, the message grasps by the throat the demons uppermost in the public's mind today.

Secondly, in an indirect though unmistakably clear manner, Nixon labels the present Congress as an obstructionist body throughout 1969 and asks almost the rhetorical question if this year will find any improvement.

More irritating than anything else in the speech is its implication, as the Democratic majority in both Houses reads the message, that Nixon's opposition is stalling the show.

Totally, the message indicates Nixon is fully attuned to what the public wants done and that he intends to hold the initiative in going at the job.

10 Years More

The automobile and gasoline industries have been "studying" pollution by automobiles since at least 1962. California in 1960 pioneered a law requiring that automobiles be equipped with devices for reduction of the poisonous fumes they discharged into the air.

Washington enacted nationwide controls in 1965, effective with 1968 models.

The battle for clean exhausts now goes on, but now there is assurance that an end is in sight, for anyone with 10-year vision. Edward N. Cole, president of General Motors, has just forecast that the federal government will require automobile engines to be virtually pollution free by 1980.

What is more, Mr. Cole acknowledged it is technically possible for the industry to comply.

The GM president is right in pointing out that the petroleum industry shares the responsibility, and probably can revise its gasoline formulas more rapidly than Detroit can make over engines.

Petroleum spokesmen say their companies have been working on just that contribution for years, but note that to convert refineries to production of "clean" gasoline with present octane ratings would be highly expensive, just as mechanical redesign can be in Detroit.

Awareness of their heavy stake in keeping the internal combustion engine in use ought to impel both industries to intensive cooperation in developing gasoline and engines that will work together as effectively as today's do, but with almost no pollution.

The public's patience is not unlimited, and it will demand substitute power, electric, steam or otherwise, before it will succumb to oxygen masks as standard alternatives. Having long experienced the regularity with which it is offered "new" models and gasolines, the public will find it hard to believe that it must wait through still another decade for clean exhausts.

Automated Taverns

Automation has invaded some unusual fields, but an electronically controlled beer dispenser which not only regulates to the last drop the liquid poured into a glass, but also controls the amount of head desired and counts the number of glasses dispensed?

This is the invention of a Kansas firm, which is now marketing it on a limited scale. A solenoid activated valve, instead of a bartender's eye, regulates the flow of the brew. At the end of the day a counter on the device records the number of sales which should have been made on the cash register.

If this idea catches on, the neighborhood taproom may never be the same. About all that is missing is a timer on each stool to tell the patron it is time to buy or leave. Chances are, someone will get to that sooner or later.

BRIDGMAN DOES NOT NEED A TRAILER PARK

The plan to establish a mobile village within the corporate city limits of Bridgman has an excellent chance of going down the proverbial drain if the high percentage of bright and civic minded citizens have the courage to put their left foot forward and put on a campaign to prevent it.

"We do not want a trailer park, mobile village, trailer camp or any other transient feature of that nature within the limits of our city." That's the attitude expressed by many persons of prominence including business and professional people and the rank and file of property owners in all sections of the city proper. Were a referendum to be held the result would be thumbs down on the whole idea and proposition.

No mobile village or park is an asset to an incorporated city or village.

Let's examine a few facts:

1. I do not dispute the truth that a great many mobile communities are a success, unto themselves, by reason of the fact that they are private enterprises, unattached to any incorporated community, strictly a business venture and self-supporting. Not one dime is invested in their existence by the city.

2. Where such a project will depend upon the city to supply water, sewer, gas, electric, police and fire protection, sanitation, garbage disposal, snow removal, school bus service, and other items common to city administration it is only reasonable to assume that a mobile village, situated within the corporate limits could never be an asset, but a liability of extreme limits, presenting possible insurmountable problems if depending upon the city for all its requirements.

On the other hand those promoters who are so interested have the opportunity of acquiring much acreage in Lake Township.

Why, may I ask, must it be within the city limits?

Again I inquire, what is the real motive behind such a project?

It would require a fortune in at least six figures to complete such a program and make it available for occupancy. Where will this finance come from and who will enjoy the profit therefrom?

It is certain that Bridgman can't and won't finance the idea, so a storm is on the horizon. Taking it all in all there are two sides to every coin, and there are two sides to the ledger. One is in black ink and the other is in red ink.

The answer we will know only

RELIGION TODAY

Churches Make Appeal To Interests Of Youth

By LESTER KINSOLVING
"How do you explain the fact that youth are no longer accepting institutional religion?" appears to be a stock question whenever clergy are interviewed.

Rarely, however, are any symphony orchestra conductors or proprietors of art galleries ever asked to justify the relevance or significance of their occupations on the criterion of such appeal to juveniles.

And those clergy who worry about their ability to capture the attention of the young might recall the New Testament. For one of the very few teen-agers mentioned in this chronicle of the original Christian Church was Eulychus. And according to the 20th chapter of the Acts of The Apostles:

"And there sat in a window a certain young man named Eulychus, being fallen asleep in a deep sleep; and as Paul was long preaching, he sunk down with sleep, and fell down from the third loft (story) and was as dead. And Paul went down and fell on him and embraced him and said 'Trouble not yourself; for his life is in him.'"

There are few sincerely religious parents who would write of St. Paul simply because his preaching happened to put a teen-ager to sleep. Yet many of these same parents think that the Church is in mortal danger because it does not have the same appeal to all of the young as do such things as bubble gum and The Beatles.

(Many churches have tried to remedy this by staging such bizarre liturgical spectacles as Jazzy Lord's Suppers — only to discover that while the stunt may cause teen-agers to fill the church initially, the attraction doesn't last.)

Some denominations have a high rate of youth participation, usually because the family's entire social life is tied up with the church. But on the whole, teen-agers are generally under-standably too immature to have a very deep-seated interest in religion, or for that matter, classical music.

Many devotees of classical music (operas and concerts now attracting larger audiences than baseball) now recognize that their appreciation of good music is due in large measure to teachers or parents who obliged them to attend concerts or listen to good music at home.

To religion, however, many such parents are unusually permissive. And, as one foreign observer has noted, "It is a amazing how assiduously American parents obey their children."

This may also be responsible, in large measure, for what is repeatedly proclaimed as "the generation gap."

On the other hand, Catholic writer Dan Herr has pointed out that "Twice as many under-30s voted for Wallace in 1968 as for Goldwater four years earlier, and President Nixon is stronger in the twenty to thirty age group than any other."

Father Andrew Greeley, a Chicago sociologist, contends:

"There really isn't a generation gap in the United States. The so-called 'gap' is largely a fiction created by journalists and TV commentators so they have something to worry adults about, or to pontificate on when they make their nightly descent from Mt. Sinai. Despite the TV specials, picture stories in the daily press, most young Americans share — for weal or woe — the values of their parents. The serious social research on generational differences shows that they are rather small."

But for those parents whose offspring if not creating a gap create an awfully good facsimile thereof, there is trenchant advice from a Canadian clergyman, the Rev. Maurice Soutter.

Rector of St. Andrew's Anglican Church in Wellington, Ontario, and writer for the award-winning periodical The Canadian Churchman, The Rev. Mr. Soutter recently received a letter from an anxious reader signed "Mother."

"I've done everything I can to help my 19-year-old son into the adult world. He has rejected his family, won't go back to school, and won't work. What next?"

Replied the Rev. Mr. Soutter:

"It's time for the ultimatum: (1) Choice: he goes to school, lives at home and accepts the discipline of the household. (2) Choice: he goes to work, lives at home and accepts a financial obligation to the support of the home. (3) Choice: He gets out altogether. Often, by the latter, do boys become men."

..And Speaking Of Your Health

The national and international interest in Parkinson's disease is evidenced by the innumerable letters I get about this chronic disease of the central nervous system. It is also known as paralysis agitans, or shaking palsy, because in its advanced form shaking of the hands and fingers characterize the disease.

Few illnesses are as heart-breaking as this one because of the devastation it brings to otherwise active and healthy people. This disorder has been every conceivable point of view in an effort to stop its progress and to keep it under control so that the serviceability of the victim will not be affected.

Dr. George C. Cotzias has recently been given the outstanding Albert Lasker award for his remarkable contributions to the control of Parkinsonism. He has been using a complex chemical, L-dopa, in an effort to reverse the crippling and disastrous effects of this neurological disease.

Dr. Cotzias has been working at the Brookhaven National Laboratory and the Rockefeller Institute, both in New York, on the chemical aspects of the disease, the endocrine factors involved and learning more about the importance of enzymes in order to unravel the mystery of this condition.

L-dopa, or dopamin, has shown impressively great and after the facts come in. A pretty picture has been painted, but honestly, I don't like the odor of the paint.

Summed up the people as a whole do not want a trailer park in the city. In the final analysis it is a transient project. Here today, gone tomorrow.

Selling house trailers is a big and profitable business. Many of us can remember the pre-fabs of World War II.

This is a solicited opinion. I fall to recognize any advantage to the city. Bridgman has other problems to correct first.

dramatic results in especially chosen cases of Parkinson's disease. It will be used more and more extensively in experimental trials and in clinical cases. Its use may even be extended to victims of cerebral palsy and other neurological diseases. The New England Journal of Medicine, truly one of the great American publications, believes that the newer studies on L-dopa represent a startling advance in modern medicine.

A strange organism known as the T microplasma is calling forth a great deal of interest by doctors and scientists who are particularly interested in the study of fertility. A fascinating study by Dr. Ruth B. Kundsinn of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston points to the possibility that this particular strain may be responsible for the inability of some women to conceive.

It may also be the reason why some early pregnancies do not go on to completion. This concept opens up wide avenues for the relief of infertility in women whose barrenness was not adequately explained.

This organism seems to be destroyed or kept in check by the tetracycline antibiotic. In order to completely destroy it and to prevent any infection, both the male and the female must be adequately treated.

A series of studies on infertile women has shown that almost 30 per cent of those affected by this condition later became pregnant and gave birth to healthy babies.

New techniques are now being developed for accurate culture of material taken from both the female and the male to find and treat microplasma infections which are considered as a type of venereal disorder. It is emphasized, however, that this is not related to the known venereal infections of gonorrhea and syphilis.

PREPARATION UNDERWAY FOR 1970 CENSUS

Taylor Finds No Hanky Panky

But Road Commission Has Been Mite Careless

By BRITTON BROWN
Staff Writer

A probe of the Berrien County Road commission shows no evidence of criminal intent or deliberate wrongdoing, but the commission is guilty of some minor "technical illegalities," Berrien Prosecutor Ronald Taylor said Friday.

Taylor's statement followed a probe requested by Berrien Supervisor Chairman Frank Poorman after news reports alleged the commission conducted business without a quorum.

Taylor and Poorman, plus members of the supervisors' roads and bridges committee, met with the road commission's engineer-manager and counsel in a closed meeting Thursday in the courthouse.

As a result, the commission has agreed to follow Taylor's recommendations to tighten up its meeting policies and correct "any existing legal defects in commission proceedings," Taylor said.

RELATIVELY MINOR
"I suppose it could be said there have been some technical illegalities (in commission proceedings), however, I think these are relatively minor and are subject to correction and will be corrected," Taylor said.

He referred to commission actions without a quorum based on a close study of commission records for 1969 and a brief review of records for a few years before 1969. The commission had turned its records over to Taylor.

One commissioner collected two $25 per diem payments in 1969 for meetings he did not attend but these were clerical errors and will be deducted from future per diems, Taylor said. Otherwise, commissioners did not collect per diem payments for meetings not attended.

"There's no evidence whatever," he said, "that anyone was engaged in a concerted effort to act illegally or improperly. The errors that were made were errors of omission rather than commission."

SOME UNCORRECTED
Taylor's findings included: The commission has acted without a quorum, "which could cause potential legal problems"; despite the commission's efforts to correct these deficiencies, a number remain uncorrected; the prime reason for lack of quorums at business meetings was a lack of designated meetings; absence of commission attendance rules and the "non-availability" of some commissioners due to personal commitments.

Taylor's recommendations, which he said have the concurrence of the commission, include:

- Commission correction of "any existing legal defects in commission proceedings."

- Steps to assure future meetings are attended by a quorum of commissioners where non-routine business is to be conducted.

- Development of rules on items such as time and place of meetings, attendance and delegation of commission authority to staff members for various functions now handled by the commission itself.

- Discussions with various commission members to assure their attendance at future meetings.

- Commission counsel will review laws affecting commission operations with commissioners to assure full compliance in the future.

Non-quorum commission activities, Taylor said, included buying equipment, determination of bids and in some cases the expenditure of money. When commissioners discovered their errors they made a good-faith effort to correct it. Taylor added.

8-County Head Office In St. Joe

George Lennon
Named Director For District

Preparations for the 1970 federal census in Berrien, Cass, Van Buren and five other neighboring counties in Michigan are underway.

George H. Lennon, Jr., 1295 Pontiac drive, Benton Harbor, has been appointed director of the eight-county district and a district headquarters is scheduled to open within 10 days. It will be located at 505 Pleasant street, St. Joseph.

In addition to Berrien, Cass, and Van Buren, the district covers Branch, Hillsdale, Lenawee, Allegan and St. Joseph.

Lennon, who will be 65 on Feb. 14, said the procedure this year involves a mailout of questionnaires on March 28 with collections from homes to begin April 1. Checking and collection are slated to be done by May 1 and the district office phased out by May 7.

400 ENUMERATORS

Lennon said over 400 enumerators will collect the forms.

Enumerators, he said, will be properly identified and no forms or other information should be given to anyone not providing the official identification.

Lennon said by law the questions on the forms must be answered. But he assured residents that the information remains confidential.

"Each person involved in the process," said Lennon, "take an oath to keep the information completely confidential."

Once the forms are checked and collected, Lennon said they would be forwarded to a federal collection point in Jeffersonville, Ind.

Data such as how many forms were collected in the district and from which city, township or county will be available upon clearance by the regional federal office.

Lennon said he was not sure when the federal government would be releasing the complete census data.

HIRING AS NEEDED

Hiring of office personnel and enumerators, said Lennon, would be carried on through the district office as needed. The bulk of enumerators will be sought probably around March 1. Hiring procedures and testing schedules, he said, would be outlined later.

Each enumerator usually covers about 500 residences, he said.

Lennon is retiring as manager of the American States Insurance company office in St. Joseph. He has been with the firm for 25 years.

He was appointed to the census position by U.S. Rep. Edward Hutchinson after taking an examination for the position. Seven other persons took the test also.

According to Lennon he was recommended for the procedure by the Berrien county Republican committee.

Lennon, a native of Chicago, came to Michigan in 1939. He assumed his duties of the St. Joseph district office for the insurance firm in 1950. It was located in the Fidelity building, Benton Harbor, for 17 years. He and his wife, Mildred, have three sons and a step-son.

BH Fugitive Captured In Tennessee

Joe West Salley, Jr., 22, a fugitive from Benton Harbor, was in police custody this week at South Memphis, Tenn. But not for very long.

Benton Harbor Det. Harry Leonardson said he was informed that Salley was picked up in Tennessee and arraigned on a certified warrant from Benton Harbor. Bond was set at only $300 which Salley posted and was released.

Salley escaped Dec. 11 from the Benton Harbor police station by scaling a 10-foot wall. He was facing arraignment here on a breaking and entering charge in connection with a series of burglaries.

Milliken Slates Berrien Speech

Governor To Address GOP At Lincoln Day Event

Governor William G. Milliken will be the guest speaker at the annual Lincoln Day dinner to be staged on Wednesday, Feb. 11, by the Berrien County Republican committee, according to announcement by Chairman F. A. (Mike) Jones.

The governor's topic has not been determined, Jones said. The event, scheduled at the Hilton Inn, 194 and M-139, will open with a reception at 6:30 followed by the dinner at 7.

According to Jones, Milliken's appearance will be the first by a governor at the Berrien county Lincoln Day dinner in many years. Traditional Lincoln Day celebrations are conducted by Republicans in recognition of the party's first president.

Musical entertainment will be presented during the program by the Benton Harbor high school Madrigal Singers, under direction of Carl W. Anderson.

Mrs. Nicholas Peet, Benton Harbor, is general chairman for the event. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Martin Tretheway, Stevensville; Mrs. Judith Litke, Royalton township; Mrs. F. A. Jones, Benton township; Forrest H. Kesterke, Fairplain; Harry Gast, Stevensville, and Mrs. John Symons, Fairplain. Introductions at the head table will be made by Jeff Edmunds, and County Chairman Jones will serve as master of ceremonies. Pastor John A. Kronicke of the Pioneer Memorial church at Andrews university will offer the invocation and benediction.

Tickets for the dinner are $10 per person or $15 per couple, and may be purchased at the GOP office in Suite 209, ICB bank building in downtown Benton Harbor, or from committee members or Republican county supervisors.

Warm coats, shoes and boots are especially needed as the supply is exhausted and people needing clothing for their children had to leave empty handed.

Also household items and linens are needed for distribution to burned out families. Items may be left at their office or at the Cancer Center across the hall.

Children's warm school clothing is urgently needed by the St. Joseph Health and Welfare Center, 2907 Division street, St. Joseph.

Mayer Case Appeal To Be Dropped

New Buffalo Men Give Up Attempt To Oust Mayor

Three New Buffalo men will withdraw their appeal of a Berrien County Circuit Court decision which said Albert Mayer is eligible to hold the office of mayor.

Joseph Debiak, a city councilman and one of three plaintiffs who brought the original suit, said yesterday that their attorney, Tat Parrish, had been instructed to discharge the appeal to the State Court of Appeals.

Debiak, Edward Bainey and Burl Hatfield had filed suit to have Mayer removed from the office of mayor, claiming he owed a $500 surcharge for water service at a business operated outside the city. Judge Karl F. Zick ruled on Dec. 1 that Mayer is not legally in default to the city and was eligible to remain in office.

An appeal of the decision was filed a few days later.

Later in December, Mayer filed a cross-appeal of one section of the decision. This held that ordinances and minutes of city council meetings need not be published to make them effective. Stephen Roumell, city attorney who counseled Mayer in the case, said he would drop this appeal when he receives formal notice that the plaintiffs have dropped their appeal.

Harbor Topples Muskegon In 75-74 Thriller

Benton Harbor Alone In First Place Now

By JIM DeLAND
Sports Editor

Rodney Rhodes came to life just in time to help Benton Harbor kill Muskegon Friday night.

The 6-2 junior forward came off the bench for the first time in two weeks and came up with the best performance of his career as the Tigers struck down Muskegon 75-74 in an electrifying battle for the first place in the Lake Michigan Athletic Conference.

A layup by Rhodes with 23 seconds left provided the winning margin for the Tigers, who came from behind twice in the second half to pull off their biggest victory of the season.

The triumph leaves Benton Harbor all alone at the top of the LMIC standings with a 4-0 record going into tonight's game against Muskegon Catholic Central, while the loss drops Muskegon into second place at 3-1.

Don Hopkins led the way with 29 points and fellow co-captain Al Williams added 14, but it was the efforts of Rhodes, Gary Harris and Jimmy Boyd that put the Tigers over the top in a game just as close as the final score.

The three substitutes combined their efforts for 24 points and 26 rebounds, with Rhodes and Harris each scoring 10 points and Rhodes leading the way on the boards by pulling down 11 rebounds.

"Rodney should be doing that all the time... he and Bull (Harris) both," Elsner said. "He has all the tools if he wants to do the job."

Rhodes also was one of three Tigers entrusted with the task of guarding Muskegon's Larry Tatum in a pressing man-to-man defense and it proved to be an impossible job.

Tatum, who did not start after missing practice for several days because of a sprained ankle, entered the game at the start of the second quarter and tossed in 27 points the rest of the way to pull the Big Reds back into contention almost by himself.

"I thought Rodney did a pretty good job on him," Elsner said despite Tatum's total. "He's got some good moves and that fadeaway jump shot is almost impossible to stop."

Three other Big Reds hit double figures, with Ray Turner netting 15 points while Jeff Billingsley and Bob Carlson scored 10 apiece, but it was Tatum who kept the Big Reds in a game that was tied 16 times in the last three periods.

Benton Harbor jumped off to an 18-15 lead in the first quarter with Hopkins scoring 10 points and Williams six, but Tatum brought Muskegon back with 10 points in the second period and tallied 11 in the fourth quarter of the tense struggle.

The six-foot senior put the Big Reds ahead for the final time at 68-67 with a three-point play and hit a 20-foot jump shot with 2:22 remaining to produce the last tie at 70-70.

Williams then cashed a free throw to put Benton Harbor ahead to stay and Hopkins added a layup with one minute left after John Gorton had blocked a shot by Muskegon's Tim Marling to give the Tigers possession of the ball.

Tatum cut the gap to one point again with another jump shot, but Rhodes then cashed the crucial layup on a perfect pass from Williams to end Benton Harbor's scoring for the night.

The Tigers almost got another layup by Hopkins after stealing the ball, but he was called for traveling on his way to the basket and Muskegon got possession with nine seconds remaining and ended the game with a jump shot by Carlson that swished through as the final buzzer was sounding.

Muskegon opened the game with a man-to-man defense but quickly switched to a 2-1-2 zone that was surprising to the Tigers but not especially effective.

"They've never used a zone against us before," Elsner said, "but we were able to work men into the middle pretty well and we broke quite a few off Bull in the pivot."

Statistically the two teams were almost as even as they were on the scoreboard.

Benton Harbor hit 34 of 81 (420) shots on the field and 7 of 15 free throws while Muskegon connected on 31 of 75 (413) from the floor and 12 of 21 from the line.

Rebounding charts showed the two teams exactly equal at 48 apiece, with Billingsley snagging 14 for Muskegon before he fouled out in the fourth quarter while Gorton had nine, Boyd eight and Harris and Hopkins seven apiece for Benton Harbor.

The victory gives Benton Harbor a 7-3 record for the season while the loss drops Muskegon back to 5-5.

Al Snyder's Tiger Cubs ran their record to 9-1 by defeating the Muskegon reserves 75-65 in the preliminary game.

Dave Williams led Benton Harbor for the third straight game with 20 points, while John Hunt scored 13 and Lonnie Davis 10. Ken Martin was high for Muskegon with 25 points.

STAR SUBSTITUTE: Benton Harbor's Rodney Rhodes (45) beats Muskegon's Larry Tatum (25) to the basket as he scores on layup during Friday night's game. Rhodes came off the bench to score 10 points and grab 11 rebounds and got winning basket in Tigers' 75-74 victory. Tatum led Muskegon with 27 points. (Staff photo by Wes Stafford)

NORTHERN BIG SIX WINNER, 54-51

Free Throws Bears' Downfall

By JAKE SHUBINSKI
Staff Sports Writer

PORTAGE — A deficiency in free throw shooting cost the St. Joseph Bears a ball game here Friday night.

The Bears, who did most everything better than Portage Northern, lost the Big Six game to the Huskies 54-51 after recovering from a second quarter 14-point deficit to lead briefly by one point twice early in the fourth quarter.

St. Joseph scored more field goals, hit for a better shooting percentage from the field, won the battle for rebounds and even had more turnovers than the Huskies.

"If we had hit our free throws, we could have still won the game," declared St. Joseph coach George Gaundier who spent another frustrating night using 12 players in various combinations trying to pull it out.

The Bears hit only one of six free throws in the final period and connected on seven of 15 during the game while the Huskies were good on 21 of 32, including 11 of 17 in the second half when the Bears registered 11 field goals to just five for the Huskies.

In the final four minutes, Mike Knuth and Dan Brege both missed the front end of one-and-ones and Mike White the second shot of a one-and-one that would have placed the Bears just two points down with 54 seconds left.

The Bears' field goal shooting supremacy was established by hitting 22 of 59 shots for a .373 mark while the Huskies were good on 16 of 46 for a .348 mark.

The rebounding talents of Scott Marutz and Packy Ryan gave the Bears a 40-39 edge in that department. Both took 12 as St. Joseph had 12 on offense and 28 on defense while the Huskies, led by John Cooper with 16, took 11 on offense and 28 on defense.

Neither team had much success holding on to the ball in the first half. The Bears were charged with 16 turnovers in 18 minutes while the Huskies had 11. St. Joseph finished with 22 and Northern 18.

The key to the final outcome, at least as far as Northern coach Bud Fossen was concerned, was the switch from a man-to-man to a 2-2-2 zone in the final five minutes.

"They were working well against our man-to-man," observed Fossen, "but weren't hitting from outside, so we made the switch."

"I don't think the zone bothered us as much as the free throw line," countered Gaundier. "We adjusted to the zone very well."

Northern's 1-3-1 offense continually broke players loose for layups during the game and was responsible for three three-point plays in the second quarter that put the Bears behind 30-16 with just over three minutes left in the half.

Two buckets by Ryan, a rebound tip by Marutz and a basket and a pair of free throws by Tim Polen pulled the Bears to within 33-26 at the half.

St. Joseph took its first lead of the night at 44-43 when Ryan took the third quarter tip and laid it in. A 15-footer by Scott Malaney, one of the very few out-court shots by the Huskies, put Northern back in front.

Marutz rebounded a missed Brege free throw for a 46-45 lead, then a pair of free throws by Copper put the Huskies on top to stay with six minutes left in the game.

During the long string of Ryan and Polen were the only

Bears to score in double figures as 10 of the 12 players used broke into the point column.

Ryan hit for 16, including 10 in the second half, and Polen finished with 10.

Malaney led Portage scorers with 20 points, Dale Shuggars totaled 15 and Copper hit for 13.

The loss left the Bears with a 4-5 overall record and a 2-3 league mark. Northern is now 3-2 in the conference and 6-4 overall.

The Bears jayvees won the opener 51-48 by scoring 13 points in the last three minutes, giving them a 6-3 record.

Ten of these points came on baskets by Craig Kolberg. Two of his four baskets were made possible by pin-point feeds by Brian Haack on fast break situations.

Kolberg finished with 16 points, Dennis Kugle scored 12 and Tom Crossman hit for 10. Ken Groggel tallied 16 to lead Portage.

The Bears are idle until next Friday night when they start the second round of Big Six play by hosting Portage Central.

COLOMA ENDS LOSS STREAK!

COLOMA — The longest losing streak in southwestern Michigan came to an end here Friday night as the Coloma Comets came from behind in the fourth quarter to defeat Niles Brandywine 62-59 in a stunning Blossomland conference upset.

It was only the second victory in the past two seasons for the Comets, who had lost 21 straight games since beating Edwardsburg 54-47 for their only victory last year and had failed to win in their first seven times out this season.

The victory also marked an amazing reversal of form by coach Casey Clark's Comets, who had been soundly thrashed by Brandywine only three weeks ago, 83-53.

During the long string of defeats Coloma never managed to hold an opponent to less than 64 points, but the Comets turned the trick last night with a man-to-man defense and effectively deliberate attack.

The scoring of forward Dana Carlson and center Stan Zech and some fine rebounding by guard Dave Vollrath carried the night for the Comets, who battled the Bobcats tooth and nail for the first three periods before finally pulling ahead to stay in the final four minutes.

Carlson led both teams in scoring with 23 points and Zech added 16. Together they tallied 16 points in the final period, when the Comets outscored Brandywine 22-16 to wipe out a two-point deficit going into the quarter.

Joe Gregor and Ron Konopinski scored 16 points each and Doug Vigh added 15 for Brandywine, but high-scoring Brian Chubb tallied only nine before fouling out along with Konopinski in the fourth quarter.

Superior accuracy from the field made the difference for the Comets, who worked for the good shots and picked up two more field goals although being outshot 66-57. Coloma finished the night with a 42 per cent average and hit 14 of 26 from the free throw line while Brandywine hit 33 per cent from the field and 14 of 20 from the line.

The largest margin during the game was six points by Brandywine, which jumped out to a 10-4 lead in the first quarter before the Comets closed the gap.

The victory lifted Coloma out of the Blossomland cellar and into a sixth-place tie with Brandywine on 1-4 league records. Overall Coloma now is 1-7 and Brandywine 3-5.

Brandywine did salvage a 70-66 victory in the junior varsity game with Drake scoring 21 points and Knapp 20. George Hauch led Coloma with 15 and Tom Davis added 11.

Lancers Overwhelm Cassopolis With 41-Point Quarter

By JOHN VANDEN HEED
Staff Sports Writer

CASSOPOLIS — A pair of rare four-point plays in the last two minutes of the first half awoke slumbering Lakeshore here Friday night.

The Lancers had trailed Cassopolis by as many as eight points before the quick eight points spurred them into a 31-27 halftime lead.

Lakeshore then really turned on the second half, including an almost unbelievable 41-point barrage in the third quarter, while on the way to a 90-51 victory.

It left the Blossomland giants on top of the conference standings with a 5-0 record. River Valley and Berrien Springs trail with one league loss each, while Cassopolis is now 3-2.

"The fast break did it," said Ranger coach Marv Middelstadt. "We lost our poise and that was it."

"I thought we just went after the ball," commented Lancer coach Russ Olin on the 41-point surge which he believes is a high since he's been coaching Lakeshore. "In the first half we were just standing there and letting them go by."

Center Dan Rosenhagen and guard Steve Gaundier sparked the third quarter spree with 12 and 10 points, respectively. They finished with 25 and 13, as Olin had all of his starters out of the game before the third period was over.

Greg Rodewald tallied 13 and Chris Knapp 10 to help the Lancer cause, while Gary Gardner came off the bench to score eight points in the last period.

Center Bill Hawthorne was tops for Cassopolis with 15 and Herman Moore added 11.

Lakeshore led briefly at 7-4 to open the game, but Cassopolis was on top 17-12 at the end of the first period. Lakeshore got off just 10 shots over the first eight minutes while being guilty of a damaging seven turnovers.

The Lancers added five more turnovers and hit just one of seven field goal attempts in the first three minutes of the second quarter as Cassopolis posted its biggest leads of the night at 21-12 and 23-14.

Lakeshore started raising its mighty head at this point by reeling off eight consecutive points. Another bucket by Moore, who got all of his points in the first half, made it 25-22 in favor of the Rangers.

The first of Lakeshore's four point plays followed. Knapp missed the second of two free throws. Rosenhagen put the rebound in while being fouled and hit his gift shot.

A second four-point outburst followed after the score was tied one last time at 27-27. Rosenhagen was fouled in the act of scoring and added a free throw. Cass' Bill VanRiper was also called for a technical when the referee said he didn't raise his hand for the first miscue, and Gaundier added the fourth point on the gift shot.

Lakeshore was off and running after that with 24 straight points without a Cassopolis return. The Lancers hit 15 of 25 field goals, 11 of 16 free throws and made just two turnovers while building their biggest lead of the night at 72-32 after the third quarter.

Cassopolis, which had hit 35 per cent of its shots in the first half, missed its first 10 attempts of the third quarter and didn't score until Hawthorne hit a free throw at the 4:14 mark. The Rangers also had two more technicals charged against them during the scoring drought.

Final field goal shooting figures saw the Rangers hitting 20 of 80 (25 per cent) and the Lancers 34 of 74 (46 per cent). At the free throw lines, Cass meshed 11 of 23 and Lakeshore 22 of 34.

Lakeshore also had a 59 to 39 rebounding advantage with Rosenhagen pulling down 17 and Greg Rodewald 11. George Bennett and James Lee had eight each for Cass.

Lakeshore, which humbled Cassopolis 116-64 earlier this season, is now 7-2 overall with a showdown coming up next Tuesday with Berrien Springs. Cassopolis has dropped three straight and is 3-4 on the season.

Cassopolis did win Friday's junior varsity game 79-57 as John Bennett netted 32, Larry Croom 20 and Doug Hunt 10. Al Weiss had 23 and Jack Beck 18 for the Lancers.

Bridgman Tot Hurt In Accident

Hospital Reports Condition 'Fair'

A 19-month-old boy was hospitalized Friday night after a two-car accident on Red Arrow highway at John Beers road, Stevensville.

Reported in fair condition today in Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, was Richard Fanslau Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fanslau, South Gast road, Bridgman. He received a concussion and face cuts, Berrien county sheriff's deputy Tom McCall reported.

The mother was released after treatment for body bruises at the hospital. Also released after treatment was Nancy Turcotte, 21, of 5274 Red Arrow highway, Stevensville.

McCall said Mrs. Fanslau and the baby were in a car driven by Fanslau, 30, on Red Arrow when the second car entered the highway from John Beers. Fanslau complained of leg scrapes but declined medical treatment, McCall said.

The second car was driven by Shirley C. Thwaitt, 21, of Mount Pleasant, Ill. Miss Turcotte was a passenger in the Thwaitt auto along with two other persons who reportedly were not injured. No ticket was issued.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

In other accidents reported by the sheriff's department, Elita Martin, 47, of 331 Summit street, Benton Harbor, was treated at Mercy hospital and released after her car was struck in the rear by a second vehicle.

Deputy Robert Greer said the accident occurred about 9 p.m. Friday on Coloma road when Mrs. Martin had stopped to make a left turn. Roy Ballard, 22, of 613 Wayne street, St. Joseph, driver of the second car was ticketed on a charge of

Three Held On AWOL Charges

Three men identified as being absent without leave from a Marine base near Coltsneck, N.J., were taken into custody early today by Berrien county sheriff's deputy Jon Nichols.

The three were identified as Frank Kern, 21, Robert Hutchins, 20, and Wayne Williams, 20. All have out of state home addresses, Nichols said.

Nichols said he took the three into custody after seeing them in a car in a service station on M-139 at 1:40 about 2 a.m. A woman companion and her two-year-old daughter were with them, he said.

Evidence Is Required For Social Security Pay

Sidney N. Manning, district manager of the Social Security office in the Benton Harbor area, today advised that persons who are about to apply for Social Security benefits should "be prepared."

Documentary evidence is necessary for a person to establish eligibility to monthly cash benefits or Medicare. "All too often" Manning said, "a person will fail to bring evidence with him when he files his claim." This causes another visit to the office and sometimes a delay of benefits.

Manning stated that the evidence needed depends on the type of Social Security benefit the person seeks. For retirement benefits, an original birth certificate or a baptismal record established in infancy is Charles Oscar Hooper, 19, Box 190, Coloma, was ticketed on a charge of speeding. James Johnson, 53, of 420 Miller street, Benton Harbor, was ticketed on a charge of failing to yield the right-of-way.

Hooper was treated and released from Mercy hospital following the accident. Greer said the accident occurred about 7:50 p.m. on Main street near Walnut street, Benton township, when the Johnson auto was driven from a driveway in front of the Hooper car.

SOOT ELIMINATED

Department of Health OK's So. Haven Plant

SOUTH HAVEN—For complying with the new air pollution control act, Everett Piano Co. has received an approved permit for its plant in South Haven from the Michigan Department of Health.

Charles B. Mullen, Everett Piano Co. executive vice president, said the firm has spent $30,000 for the installation of a new-style gas burner for its power system. Mullen said this conversion from coal to gas eliminated soot from the plant's smoke stacks. He continued:

"We are delighted that the Department of Public Health, through the issuance of the approved permit, has recognized that our piano manufacturing operations are conforming to the state's new air pollution regulations."

Mullen also said the conversion has brought many expressions of appreciation from area residents.

Adamkus No Longer Considered

Pollution Control Job Goes To Mayo

Valdas Adamkus, owner of Tabor farm resort has been rejected for the post of Chicago regional director of the Federal Water Pollution Control administration, according to an article in Friday's Chicago Tribune.

He was in training for a directorship at the anti-pollution agency's Arlington, Va., headquarters. Carl L. Klein, former Illinois state representative and now assistant Secretary of the Interior for water quality and research had recommended him for the post.

Adamkus, a structural engineer who lost a 1968 election to be a Chicago Metropolitan Sanitary district trustee, is a Republican.

FWPCA commissioner, David D. Dominick, chose Francis T. Mayo, disector of planning and interagency programs at headquarters as the new director. He will replace H. W. Poston who quit recently rather than move to another regional directorship. Poston was then hired as pollution control chief for the city of Chicago.

One official said Adamkus was definitely in line for the job but, "so much hell was raised about 'politics' that it caused the people around here to re-examine the whole thing," according to the article.

Dominick had earlier stated that Adamkus had a unique background in administration and a broad general knowledge of water programs.

Adamkus, 43, of 7338 South Sacramento avenue, Chicago, and his wife manage and own the Tabor farm resort in Sodus township.

Four Fined For Various Violations

In sentences Friday in Berrien Fifth District court, persons were penalized for malicious destruction of property, possession of stolen property and assault and battery.

James Longfellow, 19, of route 2, Cleveland avenue, Buchanan, was assessed $15 by Judge Paul Pollard for malicious destruction of a car grill. Restitution has been made.

Anna Mae Drake, 43, of 1234 Blossom lane, Benton Harbor, was re-sentenced on an earlier conviction for possession of stolen property valued under $100 and was assessed $15. Judge Paul Pollard explained that he reduced his previous sentence of $123 because of Mrs. Drake's "home circumstances."

Ruby Jane Papke, Route 2, Coloma, found guilty last week of assault and battery, was assessed $53.

Larry John Braathen, 25, Route 2, Sells road, Eau Claire, was sentenced to three days and assessed $93 for driving while his operator's license was suspended.

Diamond, of Dowagiac, was taken to Lee Memorial hospital where he was X-rayed and admitted. A hospital spokesman said no condition report was available yet. Officers said Diamond was in the company of Deputy Nelson Shepard when the accident occurred shortly before 3 a.m.

Officers said Diamond was returned to the sheriff's office here and then taken to the hospital.

Benton 'Y' Ransacked By Vandals

Mini-Bike, Rare Dog Are Stolen

Vandals emptied fire extinguishers and ransacked the office at the Benton township YMCA branch at Britain and Crystal avenues Friday during a 57-minute absence of a 'Y' official.

Township police said Ron Inman reported he found the extinguishers had been emptied onto the floor and papers scattered about in one office when he returned to the building shortly before 4 p.m. He said he had left about 3 p.m. Two youngsters, he said, had been asked to leave the building during the afternoon.

In two other cases reported to township police, a mini-bike and a dog were reported stolen Friday night.

Kenneth Joslyn said the mini-bike was taken from in front of his business on Red Arrow highway about 9 p.m. The bike, he said, was picked up by a man driving a van-type truck and put into the back of the vehicle. Police said the bike was located later in Coloma.

Betty Yerington, operator of the Yerbrier Kennels, route 2, Box 30, North Shore drive, Benton township, said a dog being housed in the kennels was taken sometime Friday. The dog is a Whippet, a relatively rare breed resembling a Greyhound.
